The software can use a huge number of different methods to access your contacts, from Accessing the service exposed by MS Outlook, to accessing contacts via the MS Outlook's POP3/IMAP. Another example is typing "mike" and seeing your contacts Mike displayed in the list. The text copied is displayed in the report as well as the objects. For example, if you copy a hyperlink, the link address appears in the report. If you copy a picture, the picture in the report appears as a thumbnail. Even better, you can filter your contact list on particular names, making it easy to organize contacts as per their job. By doing that, you can group contacts by the department they work in, providing faster access to the people you need the most (manager, doctor, etc..)
