Angular Universal: config change flow, auto routing and custom 404 - vladgob ===== zero We use Angular Universal and the overview did the trick for the AngularJS side. Lately, I've been trying Angular Universal with Angular 5, and I'm impressed how good the navigation works. Combined with isomorphic routing (optional), I feel like I can now create an SPA that is genuinely responsive, and is still

mapping is part of cycle 4 of the Geospatial Big Data Transformation Blueprint Drive to communicate, capture, analyze, archive and distribute geospatial data quickly and efficiently Part of Phase 4 of the Geospatial BluePRing Transformation Blueprint, Iridium 3D Technology is designed to enhance the customer's ability to capture, communicate and make sense of geospatial data. This technology is the latest in what has been a series of breakthroughs for the geospatial industry in terms of transforming the way data is captured, shared, analyzed and accessed. Driven by a customer request to rapidly develop the technology, the Iridium 3D team has developed a new set of technologies that provides the tools and processes the Iridium 3D customer needs to capture, manage and consolidate geospatial data across platforms and formats and to communicate with their analysts and decision makers - on disparate platforms - in less than a second. "Iridium 3D is a coherent cross platform data management and visualization platform. It enables enterprises of all sizes to innovate using geospatial Big Data for a multitude of innovative verticals. Whether it's for a website, mobile or desktop application, data can be accessed, managed and modeled via 3D visualization, web-based and mobile applications and APIs. Most importantly, users can access their data quickly from multiple devices and solutions and have meaningful and shareable data across them all - A technology that is critically needed to maximize the potential of the Internet of Things." said Krishna Valecha, Senior Vice President at Iridium 3D. Iridium 3D enables the Iridium 3D customer to: Capture and Share their data faster and easier - The Iridium 3D solution enables enterprises to "click & upload" to the cloud. The processes associated with creating and sending 3D models are fast, consistent and simplified. Communicate and Analyze - Security and confidentiality are ensured by creating 3D model that are encrypted; The model can be instantly published, shared or monitored for updates. Images can even be posted to popular social media sites, content management systems and video sharing websites, such as YouTube. Archive and Evaluate - The solution provides a single platform to maintain and instantly search over any type of geospatial database regardless if stored in a file or in the cloud. To assist in I 3D's core business strategy, the Iridium 3D team has also worked with several leading ge
